OBITUARY.

Frederick V. McNair, Ranking Rear Admiral of the Navy.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.-Rear Admiral rederick V. McNair died at his residence, in this city, this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock from a stroke of apoplexy. He had been in poor health for many months and it was in contemplation to take him to Europe. Yesterday he was taken violently ill, and to-day his condition became so critical that his attending physicians called into consultation Dr. Stern, one of the naval surgeons, but the admiral slowly sank away. He was the officer next in line to Admiral Dewey.

Frederick Vallette McNair, ranking rear admiral of the United States navy, was born in Pennsylvania, Jan. 13, 1839, and would have been retired for age on Jan. 13 next. He entered the navy as an acting midshipman Sept. 21, 1853, and was graduated from the Naval Academy June 10. 1857; passed midshipman and master. June 25 and Oct. 24, 1860. McNair's first service was in China, but he was ordered home when the war broke out, and served under Farragut. Gaining his first instruction in mand for the execution of the Chinese of- war under such a leader, he has proved commander for meritorious service at Vicksburg. He saw active service all through the civil war, mainly under Farragut, and during the dangerous Mississippi righting he was distinguished for his activity, resourcefulness and his never-flagging courage. He was in the fray at Fort Fisher, and had four years of constant fighting. After the war, in which he rose posts, his promotions being: commander, Jan. 29, 1872; captain, Oct. 30, 1883; com-modore, May 10, 1895; rear admiral, 1898. Castle. WILL IS FOUND

NOW PENDING IN COURT.

-Frankton Steel Mill Resumes-Aged Muncie Veteran Dead.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal. LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 28 .- The last will and testament of the late Horace P. Biddle was accidentally discovered today by his niece, Mrs. Eva Reynolds, while rummaging through an old bundle of papers. At the time of the judge's death no will could be found, and it was supposed that he had left none, and soon after his death his wife, with whom he had not lived for many years, began suit for possession of a widow's share of the property. This suit, since the death of Mrs. Biddle, some months ago, has been prosecuted by the administrator of her estate, Charles S. Peckham, the case being vigorously fought by the other relatives of the dead judge. Last week the Cass Circuit Court issued an order permitting the administrator to make an inventory of the Biddle property, and the case was expected to come to trial at the present term of court. The discovery of this will is expected to have a material bearing on the pending suits, and in all probability will put an end to them. In his will Judge Biddle provided for the burial of his body in his lot in Mount Hope Cemetery and forbids the burial of any other body therein, and prohibits the erection of any stone or monument over his grave. His property, real and personal, he bequeaths to Eva Reynolds, Goodwin E. Peters, Cynthia Russell, Nellie Russell, John Huber and Eugene Huber, in equal shares. The will, late this afternoon, was

A coffin and burial com- revision of the Confession of Faith and to formulate a recommendation on the subject for action by the next General As-sembly in May. The meeting will continue until Thursday or Friday, with probably three sessions a day. The questions to be considered, according to Rev. Dr. Radcliffe, of the New York-avenue Church, will affect only the church officers, as neither the ministers nor the lay members which R. O. Rankin is proprietor, was subscribe to the creed literally. The chief issue, he said, was to make the seventeenth century creed conform to that of the nineteenth century. It is said that of the two hundred presbyteries only 173 have voted on the question, 126 have declared for some change, while forty-six have gone on record as opposed to any change whatsoever. WILL TEACH BUDDHISM.
